SAYING "HI"

Author: Bronwyn Sutton, Speech Language Pathologist, BEST Autism Therapy

Sometimes people say "hi" or "hello" to me. This is a friendly thing to do.
It's a good idea to say "hi" back as well. This shows them that I am friendly too.

They might say "Hi, how are you?" A lot of people say this, especially grownups.
I can say "I'm fine, how are you?"

It's good manners to say "hi" to people when I first see them. I can say their name too.

When I see other kids I can say "hi". They will usually say "hi" back to me.

It's hard to know when I should wave. Here are some tips:

- I might wave if the person is a long way away.
- I might wave – instead of saying "hi" – if the person can't hear me

hi

Can you think of any other times when you might wave?

I am learning how to say "hi". It can be tricky to know what to say. I will ask my teacher or parents for help.
